BOSTON, MA – March 15, 2015 – Visible Systems Corporation today launches a series of its eLearning courses on one of the world's largest online learning marketplaces, Udemy, serving a global community of learners who are interested in obtaining certification and accreditation across several IT subjects and disciplines. Each course is taught by an expert instructor and available on-demand so learners can take a course at their own pace, on their own time, and on any device. Whether taking job-specific courses or courses geared toward broader self-improvement, learners can access the courses they need on the go from any device, to immediately learn what they need. Enterprise Architecture, Agile Methodologies, Software Quality Assurance, Project Management, Systems Analysis and Design; to name but a few, are examples of courses offered by Visible that can now be taken on Udemy.

 "Learning is changing faster than ever resulting in constant shifts in what people need to know and how they come to learn what they need to know. One example is our Certified Strategic Modeling Facilitator (CSMF) Master Course which is directed to an audience of senior, experienced consultants. In the past, the course was delivered entirely on-site, at the workplace. Today, with Udemy's help, we offer the Course to both aspiring and practicing senior-level business managers (CEOs, COOs, CFOs); middle-level business managers; operational business managers; business experts; IT experts (CIOs, IT managers, CTOs); systems analysts or developers no matter where they may be in the world." said Michael Cesino, President & CEO.
