News Release: Visible® partners with Capgemini (UK).

BOSTON, MA – October 31, 2014 – Visible Systems Corporation announced today that it shall provide Capgemini (UK) consultants with access to use its “Community” license of Visible Systems Corporation products including The Visible Analyst and Polaris generally used for building data, process and object models; as well as issues management of modelling related-tasks. Full product documentation (Presentation slides, Tutorials, etc.) shall be made available in a subsequent correspondence. The nature of the licenses shall be without restriction for Capgemini (UK) consultants to develop artifacts for Capgemini (UK) clients within the product repositories. Although Capgemini (UK) consultants have access to a free license, Capgemini (UK) clients shall not have access to a free license without prior knowledge and consent from Visible Systems Corporation. Notwithstanding this, Capgemini (UK) clients are not precluded from taking part in a trial licensing period as offered by Visible Systems Corporation.

“Working with Capgemini (UK)’s Strategic Information Strategy team as a part of Business Information Management has given Visible invaluable insight into what a world class leader of enterprise services such as Capgemini (UK) is looking for from software that is used to model enterprise information.” said Michael Cesino, President & CEO. “From our perspective, we gain invaluable insight into the user experience while helping Capgemini (UK) to minimize their delivery cost and the overall risk of providing solutions to their customers. If there is such a thing – it’s a win-win-win scenario.” added Cesino.
